Thankful to be Laborers with God

This year has been an interesting and thrilling experience. From the very beginning QuestLine Productions has been a faith based ministry and it has been a rich experience to watch the Lord provide.

This year, however, has grown our faith in new ways and as it comes to a close we look back with rejoicing and gratitude for God's gracious providence.

Charles and Karen have been on the road much of the year speaking with Conference and church leaders. As a result of their tireless efforts they have been invited to present Thunder in the Holy Land to three Conference Pastors' Meetings in January.

Already three pastors, two from the Carolina Conference and one from the KY-TN Conference, are slated for insertion in 2017. We anticipate more insertions after Charles' presentations in January.

Besides the pastoral insertions we did this year, we also had the pleasure of filming the Carolina Conference President, Elder Leslie Louis and three laypeople from the Decherd, Tennessee SDA Church.

We are always excited by the stories that come back to us as pastors and churches implement Thunder in their cycle of evangelism. One such story came to us last week from Elder Lonnie Melashenko.

Several months ago a young couple felt convicted of the Sabbath through their personal study. As a result they decided to visit the local Seventh-day Adventist Church in West Chester, Ohio. Here they met Vince and Darla Waln, church members with a heart for souls. The two families became friends and Darla invited them to study the Bible with her.

Each week they would get together and watch Thunder in the Holy Land and walk through the discussion thoughts in the lesson handouts. They were thrilled as they learned other Biblical truths they hadn't known before. By the time they finished the series they were ready to make a full commitment to the Lord and were recently baptized.

QuestLine Productions is thrilled to be instrumental in equipping and empowering lay-people to be successful soul-winners. The I Met God series will soon equip every language of the world and as we look toward 2017 we are thankful for you, our partners in hastening His return.

Thankful in all Things

As little hand-shaped turkeys display proudly on refrigerator doors, cornucopias overflow with bounty, and traditional aromas waft through our homes, we find we are indeed Greatly Blessed and Highly Favored.

It's fairly easy to recognize this truth when stomachs are full and we're reposed with family and friends in the comforts of hearth and home. But what about when things aren't so comfy and plush?

This time of year one's mind travels back to our nation's feeble beginnings and the pilgrim founders. As I read about our brave forefathers recently this particular thought stood out to me:

"God had permitted trials to come upon His people to prepare them for the accomplishment of His gracious purpose toward them. The church had been brought low, that she might be exalted. God was about to display His power in her behalf, to give to the world another evidence that He will not forsake those who trust in Him. He had overruled events to cause the wrath of Satan and the plots of evil men to advance His glory and to bring His people to a place of security. Persecution and exile were opening the way to freedom." – The Great Controversy, 291

It is so easy to complain, feel slighted or abandoned by God. But as I read this I was reminded that the very things we find so perplexing may very well be the very things God is using to bring about our greater good.

For this reason "... let us not be weary in well doing ..." "But in every thing give thanks ..." for "... we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose." (Galatians 6:9; 1 Thessalonians 5:18; Romans 8:28)

As we learn to rest in confidence in the goodness of God regardless of circumstances we will become a beacon to all those around. Our lives will become a testament to the faithfulness of God. Let's make every day a day of thanksgiving.

The Time for an Aggressive Work

To all people and nations and kindreds and tongues the truth is to be proclaimed. The time has come for much aggressive work be done in the cities, and in all neglected, unworked fields.
